Speakers

Jon J. Huskins, MBA, CPA, President and CEO of Crosspoint Capital, has more than 30 years of experience in banking. He's involved with the Indiana CPA Society and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and serves as an elder at Traders Point Christian Church.

Allen Walworth is President & Principal of Generis. Over the past decade, Allen has partnered with 90 churches, helping them raise over $260 million toward their ministry visions. Before becoming a stewardship consultant, Allen was a senior pastor for 17 years, leading congregations ranging from a small town church of 1,000 members, to a large metropolitan congregation of over 9,000 members.

Facilitator

Ed Bahler is President and CEO of Aspen Group, the Midwest's premier church design and construction company. As CEO, Ed works closely with the Aspen Group team to develop and deliver planning, leadership, finance, architectural and construction expertise. This ensures a powerful faith building experience for the church as well. He is founder of Cornerstone Knowledge Network and on the Board of Directors for the Indiana Family Institute.

Ministry is top priority in any church. But let's face it. It takes money to do ministry... and the current economy is having an impact.

Many churches are dealing with staff reductions, program cuts, reduced giving, and major budget adjustments. Those contemplating stewardship campaigns are thinking twice.

What should your church be doing?

Get insights from a panel of church finance & stewardship experts who have experience with scores of churches.

This Pastors Lunch includes:

- Experts' analysis of the current economic situation
- Economic outlook and assessment of how that will affect church finances
- Predictions about interest rates, the cost and availability of funds, and inflation
- Current trends in weekly giving and stewardship campaigns
- Factors banks and other lenders are scrutinizing when churches apply for loans

The luncheon format includes presentation and plenty of Q&A time.
